HOUSE TO LET.

"Strange that a harp of thousand strings Should keep in tune so long."

THIS subscriber has several chambers to let in his house which is beautifully located directly opposite Trinity Church Burying Ground; he will rent the rooms with furniture, or without,
as may best suit the tenant. There is, probably, no more desirable spot in Newport, for those whose souls are not entirely steeped in sin, and wrapped up in the flimsy veil of this world's delusion; the occupant may sit at the window, and view the last home of man in all its mysterious and solemn grandeur, and seriously reflect upon the great uncertainty of all things human. Here he can commune with himself, and meditate, in full view of the grave yard, on the final consummation of all things, and anticipate that universal crash, when the earth shall be burned up, and the heavens be rolled together as a scroll. We must reflect upon these things here, and be prepared with our passport when we meet the last Tyler, or we shall receive the fatal mark of the black brush; why, land!
what is a few days' sojourn in this miserable world, compared to a high seat in the Celestial Lodge above, where the Knighthood will be gathered in the pure robes of innocence and beauty!

In order to secure the chambers, early application should be made, to

For the Newport Daily News. TO THE BEAUTIFUL KATE.

My angel Kate; thy home is where The spotless cherubs roam,
And Heaven's celestial court will be Thine everlasting home.

Why cling to earth, with all its cares,
Thou spotless cherubim,
For, mid the thoughtless crowd, I find
No other seraphim.

So plume thy wings for azure fields,
Where spirits live in bliss,— But ere thou goest, give; oh, give
To me a parting kiss.

For the Newport Daily News. THE REFORM: A TRUE STORY.

BY JUDIE COLE.

CONCLUDED.

Many times had Frank promised to break off all connection with his dissipated companions—to prosecute his studies, and, as he said tame himself down to happiness with his lovely Kate; but the promise was as often violated, for the two strong appetites of gambling and drunkenness were not to be overcome, even by her ardent love. He really felt for her, and knew himself unworthy of her, but perhaps had never felt how dear she was to him, until the morning of his departure, when he once more urged her to forgive him—to accept again his vow of reformation, and let the hope of her love, the desire to make her happy, be his guiding star to purity and virtue. She resisted the earnest, passionate appeal, and the equally earnest pleading of her own heart, and he left her, with the words, "Frank, I dare not trust you again," ringing in his ears, and burning in his heart.

He will not follow Frank Vernon to the new scenes which seemed only to nourish his evil propensities, nor need we pause to paint the misery and degradation of him who had once added so much to the blessings of a home, and promised so fairly to make to himself a name among the proudest and best of our land. He had been absent more than two years, and the Vernons and Miltons were friends again, yet the former seemed ever to look on Kate with bitter feelings, as if she had caused the ruin of their idol. One of his sisters wrote him,
"It is rumored, that your old classmate, Edgingham, is about to be married to Kate Milton." The letter fell from Frank's hand, and he sat for an hour in deep, painful thought; it would seem by the knitting of his brow, and an occasional groan, as if he was making some violent mental effort. At length he arose from his chair, and with clashed hands, said solemnly and slowly,
"I will never touch cards or dice, nor raise again the intoxicating draught to my lips, while I have breath, so help me God,"—and then he added, sadly, "Kate has made a wise choice, for Edgingham is every way worthy of her, and she will be to him—Oh, what will she not be! The sharer of his happiness; the soother of his sorrows; his incentive to exertion, his reward for toil, the blessing of his life, the guardian angel of his home,—and she might have been all this to me, had not the demon of Intemperance clasped me in his murderous embrace, and now I am his and his only; I have no motive for reformation, and I care not how soon I sleep in a drunkard's grave,—but stop!—my oath! so lately, so earnestly uttered! Can I break it? No! Kate Milton shall yet respect me, and her friendship, her esteem is far, far more to me than the love, the admiration of the world."

Will the reader follow me to a pleasant parlor, where, one year after Frank's sad soliloquy, is seated a noble looking man, over whose benevolent face a more than usual joyousness is stealing, as he listens to the animated voice of a fair young girl, whose face glows with delight at the tale she is telling,—and they will be here so soon, dear Father,—Alicton and Belle, and Mr.

Edgingham and Frank, dear, precious Frank, thoroughly reformed as he is, and Kate will be so happy?"

"Will not my Julia be happy too?" said the fond Father, "and is she still jealous of Mr. Edgingham's love for her sober sister Kate?"

"Oh, don't, Papa," laughed the blushing Julia, "you know we found out long ago that Edgingham only liked Kate for Frank's sake, and their long conferences were all about him, and their earnest hope that he might become as good and sober-minded as he now is, and—and—"

"No matter now, love, go to your Mother;
she has many a care which your presence may dispel, in some measure; and I would be alone for a time with my God, that I may pour out my heart in prayer and thanksgiving, for the happiness of my children, and for the reform of him who is soon to possess my treasure of treasures, KATE."

Good Advice.—There is much good sense in the following, although old, that deserves to be repeated once a year:

"If any thing in the world will make a man feel badly, except pinching his fingers in the crack of a door, it is, unquestionably, a quarrel. No man ever fails to think less of himself after, than he did before one—he degraded him in the sensibility to disgrace on the one hand, and increase the power and passionate irritability on the other.
The truth is, the more quietly and peaceably we all get on, the better; both for ourselves and neighbors. In nine cases out of ten, the wisest course is, if a man cheats you, quit dealing with him; if he slanders you, take care to live so that nobody will believe him. No matter who he is, or how he misuses you—the wisest way is just to let him alone; for there is nothing better than this cool, calm, and quiet way for dealing with the wrongs we meet with.

Singular Marriage.—A widower in Camden, who was not very young, became smitten with a young and beautiful girl, and married her. A short time after, the son of this man by a former wife, became also in love, not with a younger person, but with the mother of the father's new wife, a widow lady still in the bloom of life. He offered himself, and soon the young man and the widow were united in the bonds of matrimony, so that in consequence of these two connections, a father became the son-in-law of his own son, and the wife not only the daughter-in-law of her own son-in-law, but still more, the mother-in-law of her own daughter; while the husband of the latter is the father-in-law of his own mother-in-law, and father-in-law of his father.
Singular confusion may arise, if children should spring from these peculiar marriages.

Inconvenience of a Bad Character.— A mortal fever prevailed on board a ship at sea, and a negro man was appointed to throw the bodies of those who died from time to time, overboard. One day when the Captain was on deck, he saw the negro dragging out of the fore-castle a sick man who was struggling violently to extricate himself from the negro's grasp, and remonstrating bitterly against the cruelty of being buried alive. "What are you going to do with that man, you black rascal?" said the Captain. "Going to throw him overboard, massa, cause he dead!" "Dead, you scoundrel," said the Captain, "don't you see he moves and speaks?" "Yes, massa," replied the negro, "I know he say he no dead, but he always lie so, nobody neber know when to believe him!"

It is one of the most common errors of mankind to think that the possession of something which they cannot attain, would greatly increase their happiness.

The New York Mail had not arrived when our paper went to press, 7 1-2 o'clock.

We shall issue an Evening Edition of the News this evening, within an hour after the adjournment of the Legislature, containing a full report of its proceedings during the day, and the official result of the election. Papers can be had at the office, in wrappers for mail, for ONE CENT.

ELECTION DAY.—This is an interesting and exciting day, both for old and young, and our town will be crowded by all classes, grades, and ages, of both sexes. The politicians will come to attend the session of the Legislature, and witness the ceremonies of the formation of the Government of the State, for the current year: many will come for pleasure, who have no business; and our own town's people will devote this day to comfort and amusement. Many strangers are already here, and while we write, many more are arriving in steamers, packets and stages.

Aside from counting the votes for general officers, and the organization of the Government, and election of civil officers, but little business of importance is transacted at this session of the Legislature; but we shall give full reports of all its proceedings every day, in an Evening edition of the News, and such as are visiting here during the week can send the day's doings of the Legislature to their friends by the boat or mail every morning, one day in advance of the Providence papers.

The charter of the Newport and Fall River Railroad will be granted this week, and then the Company will be formed, and all the necessary arrangements made to commence the road at once. We shall have something further to say of this road in future, when we are at leisure, and our columns are not so much occupied by other matters of immediate importance.

During this week, we shall not be able to devote quite so much time and space to items of news by the mails, as we shall after the adjournment of the Legislature.

The procession will be formed at 10 o'clock, in front of Townsend's Hotel, in the following order, viz:—

Rhode Island Horse Guards, Col. Gould.
Artillery Company,
Col. PERRY.

Sheriff of the County of Newport.
His Excellency the Governor, Lieut. Governor, and suite.
Secretary of State, Attorney General, and General Treasurer.

The Members of the Senate.
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
Members of the House of Representatives.
Citizens and Strangers.

The procession will move up Thames-st., up the Parade, to the State House, where the two branches of the Legislature will be organized in their respective Halls; the two bodies will then unite in Grand Committee. His Excellency the Governor, presiding, and the session will be opened with prayer. A committee will then be appointed to count the votes for State officers, and the Grand Committee will then adjourn until afternoon, to hear the report of the Counting committee. As there is probably no election of Governor and Lieutenant Governor by the people, and as there was much scattering on the tickets, it will no doubt take longer to count the votes, and if the committee should not report until a late hour, the choice of those two officers may not take place until to-morrow; in which case, the usual salute and escort of the Governor elect, back to his quarters, will not take place till to-morrow forenoon. As the Whig party have a large majority in Grand Committee, there can be no doubt but that the Hon. BYRON DEMAN will be elected Governor, and the Hon. ELISHA HARRIS Lieutenant Governor. We shall give a full account of the day's proceedings in an Evening edition, which will be issued in half an hour after the Legislature adjourns.

An Ecclesiastical Council was held at the North Baptist Church, in this town, last week, which continued in session three days, for the purpose of settling the difficulties which have long existed between the Church and Corporation. We understand that both parties express satisfaction with the decision. The Clergy and Laity, who composed the council, also expressed their opinion that it would be highly proper and expedient that the difficulties which still exist between the Church and some of its former members, or at least the dissatisfaction felt by those members, with the previous transactions of the Church, be submitted to a similar council, for adjustment. We trust that these unpleasant difficulties will all soon be settled, so that this ancient Church and Society may be restored to its former prosperity. We have been promised a report of the Council, which we shall publish in a few days.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CAMBRIA.

Eight days later from England.

The Royal Mail Steamship Cambria, Capt. Jenkins, left Liverpool on the 19th of April last, at 4 P. M., and arrived at Halifax on the 4th inst., at noon, and left again at 4 P. M. She brought from ninety to one hundred passengers to Halifax, and left about thirty there. On Saturday night, about 20 minutes to 12, the weather being foggy, the boat running at half speed and just about being stopped for the purpose of sounding, she touched slightly on the bottom. She then floated broadside to the beach. It was then discovered by communication with the shore, that she went ashore on the beach off Truro, about five miles south of Highland Light, Cape Cod.

There was quite a swell at the time, but fortunately no wind. Every effort was made to heave her off. At the last account she remained perfectly tight.—Boston Times of yesterday

The general news of the Cambria is not very important. Things look rather pacific, relative to Oregon. Cotton has risen one eighth, on the receipt of the news of short crops by the Hibernia.

Several large cargoes of Indian corn have arrived in Dublin.

ATTEMPT TO TAKE THE LIFE OF THE KING OF FRANCE.—About 5 o'clock on Thursday, as Louis Phillip was returning from his drive in the forest of Fontainebleau, a man seated upon the wall, fired at the King. His family were with him. Several balls struck inside the carriage, but no one was injured. The assassin was arrested. He is an old General, guardian of the forest.—Journal des Debats.

IRELAND.—The news is distressing. In some parts of Tipperary the peasantry, unable to resist longer the cravings of hunger, have broken into the shops and helped themselves. The town of Crommel is in a state of siege, and the poor starving people are only kept down by fear of the bayonet.

TURKEY.—Letters from Constantinople of the 27th ult., announce that the Abbazez, an independent tribe of Circassia, has rejected the offers of Russia for peace, and joined Schawyl.

We shall not probably issue our paper quite as early in the morning in future, as we did yesterday; this will depend very much upon the importance of the news brought by the morning mail, and the time of its arrival.

We shall not be able to publish a story on our outside after to-day, until next week, as the Legislative Reports will occupy all our space.

Park Benjamin is in love with all the Baltimore ladies. Wonder if they reciprocate this generous act? Park is very much inclined to think every lady in love with him, that he sees, but he is generally very sadly disappointed.

We refer our correspondent, "Inquirer," to an editorial article in to-day's paper, relative to the matter about which he writes.

The splendid new steamer Roger Williams, came down from Providence last evening, bringing nearly six hundred of all sorts and kinds, to election. She went immediately back, and will return this morning.

NEW WORK ON MEXICO.—Gen. Wady Thompson, late Minister from this country to Mexico, is about publishing a work on that country; the distinguished reputation of the author, and his opportunities in Mexico, to obtain a thorough knowledge of the customs of the people, &c., afford an ample guarantee of its value.

FIFTY-FOUR FORTY, is the name of a new steamboat at the West. What next?

TO ADVERTISERS.—We issued an edition of six hundred copies of the News yesterday, and what is more, sold the whole of them. Bring in your advertisements, if you want them widely circulated, and read by all classes in the community.

Gov. Pratt, of Maryland, was to visit the Penitentiary of that State, on the evening of the 30th ult., to see the Institution, and to converse with the Rev. Charles T. Torrey, the unfortunate individual imprisoned there for assisting in the abduction of slaves; it is thought that this visit on the part of the Governor will result in the speedy release of Mr. Torrey, who is lying at the point of death.

We have had an abundance of rain, and plenty of Newport fog to match, during the last week.

The American Brass Band are to make music for the Artillery Company, to-day; it will be excellent.

The election for Delegates to the Convention in Iowa, has resulted in favor of the Democrats.

May-Day in New York was rather blueish, and unpleasant; but the people had prepared to move, and move they did.

The Chimes in Trinity Church Tower, New York, commenced business on Saturday, by playing "Old Hundred" in a very creditable manner.

A Daily paper is to be published at Newport, R. I., during the fashionable season.—N. Y. Express.

Yes, and during the whole year also.—Ed. News.

Governor Jackson did not arrive in town last evening, but is expected this morning.

Edward Everett was inaugurated as President of Harvard College on Thursday last.

The Secretary of the Navy has made a contract with Capt. George W. Taylor, the American diving-bell and sea-bottom exploring man, to proceed with his powerful apparatus to Gibraltar, for the purpose of raising the steamship Missouri.

A VETERAN INDEED.—Mr. William Prigden died, not long since, in Bladen County, N. C., in the one hundred and twenty-fourth year of his age. He was in the Army of the Revolution, and served through it as a volunteer, though then an old man. He has left great-grand-children over forty years of age.

The English language is composed of 6,021 Latin words, 4,382 French, 2,950 Saxon, 1,288 Greek, 660 Dutch, 229 Italian, 117 German, 111 Welch, 83 Spanish, 81 Danish, and 28 Arabic, or together 15,629.

THE EAST INDIA HAIR DYE, is warranted to impart to the Hair a beautiful jet-black, without either affecting its softness or strength, and without staining, or in any way injuring the skin. It is perfectly innocent in its nature, and has no deleterious effects on the health, as is attested by the experience of those in this city who have used it for a long time, and who still continue to use it. An apprehension of its possessing some injurious qualities, has alone deferred thousands from using this valuable composition, which so much beautifies and adorns personal appearance.

A still greater revolution in the sale of Ready Made Clothing. New Store and new Goods, at the old stand, where the public have been favored with so many good bargains. 91 Thames street, one door north of Messrs. W. B. & E. J. Swan's.

THE PROPRIETOR of this Establishment has the pleasure of informing the people of Newport and its vicinity, that he has leased the new and commodious store, 91 Thames street, for the purpose of carrying on the Ready Made Clothing Business, where the public may be assured that they will always find on hand the largest assortment of Clothing and Furnishing Goods in the place, as well as the lowest prices. If I can but induce the people to call upon me, I will give them the most positive proof of the truth of this assertion, as I am determined to secure for the United States Clothing Store a tremendous run of custom, and, aware as I am, that competition is so severe, that the only mode of success is to offer my Goods at a small advance on Cost. Will the people call upon me? I will give them the most positive and pleasing evidence of what I say; still more, I will not urge them with undue persuasion to purchase what they do not want. The custom of forcing goods upon people has become so prevalent that they are sorely perplexed to know where they can go and be allowed the use of their own judgment in selection of Goods. Once more I beseech of you to call and examine my stock of Clothing and Furnishing Goods, before purchasing elsewhere, which consists of a large and good assortment of FROCK and DRESS COATS, of a variety of styles and colors; also, a large quantity of Tweed Frock and Sack Coats; 2 or 3 dozen of the GORM MIXED TWEED, a most beautiful article for summer, Kentucky Jeans, and a great variety of other kinds, too numerous to mention.

New-York Illustrated Magazine of Literature and Art.

Edited by LAWRENCE LAMBE, and Published by WILLIAM TAYLOR, No. 2 Astor House, New-York.

THE Second Volume of the "ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE" will be commenced with the May number, and will be published about the fifteenth of April, and the success, which has so far attended our enterprise has determined us to spare nothing that will insure an increased patronage. The large edition printed of the first volume was exhausted on the publication of the fourth number.

Our new volume will be commenced with a much larger edition, to secure for subscribers, complete sets, and will possess INCREASED ATTRACTIONS! Great improvements will be made in our Engravings, giving FOUR SPLENDID STEEL PLATES in each number, and a variety of finely executed ILLUSTRATIONS ON WOOD! The letter-press will be of a high and refined order, original and selected, consisting of Romance, Historical Sketches, Poetry, Essays, Reviews, Biography, &c. &c. Our selections will be mostly from sources beyond the reach or means of the general reader, and no pains or expense will be spared to make it worthy the attention of every one.

The Magazine will be handsomely printed on Butler's superior paper, with bold beautiful type, and each number will contain SIXTY-FOUR LARGE OCTAVO PAGES! making two elegant volumes a year of 768 pages, (384 each), illustrated with FORTY-EIGHT ENGRAVINGS ON STEEL! independent of the numerous illustrations on wood.

As a LADY'S and GENTLEMAN'S Magazine, it may be welcomed by, and prove an agreeable companion to, the most fastidious.

Arrangements have been made to procure original translations from some of the most popular French authors. The press in all parts of the country have been lavish in their praises of the "Illustrated Magazine," as will be seen by the following:—

The Journal of Commerce says: "The literary contents are of the most interesting character."

The Rambler says: "It is destined to be the Magazine of the country."

It is got up in a very elegant style, type, paper, engravings—all good. * * It will prove a powerful rival among its lighter competitors.—N. Y. Evening Mirror.

Each number contains four gems of the old or new masters, besides some half a score of wood-cut illustrations of the literary contents.

Phil. Sd. Courier. It will be a favorite for all those who look for choice pictoriala.—N. Y. Sunday Atlas.

Of its literary contents we need not speak, unless to say that they are "increasing rich."

One of the largest and handsomest magazines now published.—Knoxville, (N. Y.) Repub.

Decidedly one of the best periodicals of the day.—Dover, (N. H.) Gazette.

The embellishments are uncommonly elegant, both in design and execution.—N. Y. True Sun.

It is a work which ought to have a great circulation.—New's Weekly Messenger.

Light, graceful, pleasant reading, of a pure moral tone and mostly novel, accompanied with no less than four steel and four wood engravings, which elegantly embellish as well as illustrate the work.—Park Benjamin's Western Continent.

Those who wish a first-rate table companion, must obtain the New-York Illustrated Magazine.—Burr, (Mass.) Pol.

It contains four [steel] engravings, and a large number of wood cuts, besides sixty-four pages of excellent reading matter.—Phila. Chronicle.

One of the pleasantest periodicals of light literature published in this country.—Portland Bulletin.

Numerous other compliments might be cited, had we room.

AGENTS, and persons wishing to commence with the new volume, are requested to send in their order as soon as possible, to secure complete sets.

TERMS.—Yearly subscription, $3; two copies, $5; or five copies (to one address) $13.

All letters of subscription, and orders, addressed to Wm. TAYLOR, 2 Astor House.

This Soap is an Eastern Botanical discovery of superior efficacy for rendering the skin soft, clear and fair, and imparting to the complexion a healthy rosy hue; as a creator and conservator of a transparently fair skin Radway's Chinese Medicated Soap may be said to exert an almost magical effect; it being perfectly free from all mineral admixture; it is distinguished for its extremely bland, purifying and soothing effects upon the skin, while by its action on the pores and minute secre-tory vessels expels all impurities from the surface, allays every tendency to inflammation, and effectually removes all redness, Tan, Pimples, Spots, Freckles, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, Erysipelas, Rash, and other unsightly cutaneous visitations.

FRANK HAMMETT.

The Columbian Magazine, 1846.

Edited by JOHN INMAN and ROBERT A. WEST.

IN entering upon the fifth volume of the Columbian Magazine we find ourselves somewhat perplexed as to the right execution of our task. We have much to say of the past, but it might seem egotistical to say it; and we have much to say of the future, but we fear lest we should appear unduly to boast. On the other hand, something at this season must be said, lest we should appear ungrateful for the steadily increasing patronage bestowed upon us. Is not ours a pleasant predicament? On one hand stands the spirit of our proverbial modesty, and the moment we begin to speak of what we have done and shall do, it lays its shadowy finger upon its ghostly lips, and with other mysterious gestures frowns us into silence; on the other hand the generous public—the embodiment and impersonation of several thousands of subscribers and readers—demands that we pay tribute to their liberal patronage, that we recall the pleasures they have been wont to enjoy for now two years in our pages, and that we declare our plans for the future. We have, of course, no choice left but to exorcise the ghost of our native bashfulness. 'Tis done;—and now we will talk freely with our "dear public," of ourselves and our intentions.

How rapidly, and notwithstanding difficulties to be surmounted, how pleasantly has time sped since we tried the experiment of a new magazine in this great emporium of commerce. Two years only have elapsed, and yet our enterprise has been crowned with success, and the pages of the Columbian Magazine periodically gladden and instruct the hearts of the matchless fair ones of our own proud city and state, throwing the light of its pleasant tales and ever virtuous sentiments over many thousand family circles, fostering purest affections and teaching lessons that well might fall from mother's lips into maiden's listening ears. Already has our magazine numerous readers in every State of the Union. The shrewd and observant New Englander greets it with a hearty welcome; on summer's eve beneath shady trees, or on winter's night around the glowing hearth, many a youthful seion of a worthy sire reads aloud from its pages, while beautiful and virtuous daughters ply the willing needle, and aged sire and dame exchange approving and delighted glances. Far away in the thickly peopled West do we aid in upholding and perpetuating the refining influence of literature and art, and soothe the asperities of arduous toil and isolated life; and the sunny South greets us monthly with a frank and generous welcome. Yes, brief though our existence has been, it has neither been profitless nor joyless. We have sought to supply Americans with a magazine worthy of America, and the universal hail of welcome that has greeted us has far exceeded our expectations, while it has increased our conviction that a magazine such as we have been able to furnish, was needed for the many thousands of American readers.

We enter upon our third year with bright and cheering prospects. Every where has the press spoken in terms of high commendation, not alone of the literary contents of the Columbian, but of its unsurpassed embellishments, and never with warmer praise than during the last six months. This, with our increased circulation, we take as an acknowledgment that we have fulfilled the promises we renewed six months ago. We need not again renew them. Be it ours to do and not to boast. To those who have patronized us so far, we offer grateful thanks. We have no doubt that we shall continue to secure their approval and their good wishes. To those who, now that the new POSTAGE LAW is IN FULL OPERATION and a new year is commencing, will doubtless swell the list of our patrons, we say that we have contracted for, and have in progress some of the richest and rarest embellishments for the new volume, that have ever been produced in this country—embellishments designed as well as ENGRAVED EXPRESSLY FOR THE WORK; and that we have entered into treaty with many of the first American authors regularly to aid us by their literary labors. These arrangements have of course entailed upon us great expense, but we intend that the Columbian shall be the first—in every respect the best—of American magazines. Let there be no misapprehension on this point, and let our friends give us the return of a still larger patronage, for we will deserve it.

As to the past or future discharge of our editorial duties it behooves us to say little. We shall indeed but express our obligations to our numerous correspondents, and request a continuance of their favors, assuring them that they shall ever have the most courteous attention at our hands.

We have but to add that the publisher enters upon a new volume, therefore, with expectations of increased patronage. He has every reason for indulging such expectations. Increased exertions will be made to deserve it in each department of the work.

Speaking of correspondents, we refer with pride to the annexed list of those who have hitherto aided us embodying, as it does, names that are an honor to our country's literature—those who have attained to the highest fame and others who are steadily and rapidly pressing to the same
